AUTO ACCIDENT FATAL TO GLENN FRANK AND SON

Noted Educator - Author
Killed on Eve of His First Campaign

Greenleaf, Wis., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Dr. Glenn Frank, 52, Republican political adviser, educator and author, was killed in an automobile accident last night on the election eve of his first campaign for public office.

His son, Glenn Frank, Jr., 24, a newspaper reporter, was injured fatally and a publicity aide suffered minor injuries.

Dr. Frank, Chairman of the Republican party's policy committee, was seeking the U. S. senatorial nomination in tomorrow's Wisconsin primary election.

Enroute from one political gathering to another, Frank's automobile failed to round a curve at a road intersection, crashed into a sand pile, and overturned.

Dr. Frank was killed instantly. His son died on the way to a hospital at Green Bay.

Theodore Stumpf, 23, of Waukegan, a member of Frank's campaign publicity staff, was burned by acid let loose by the automobile's campaign sound equipment.

Suffering from shock, Stumpf could give only a meager account of the accident.

Reporter's Story Meager

"I was riding in the back seat," he told Sheriff Clifford Kellner of Brown county. "I think Glenn, Jr., was driving, but I don't know for sure. I don't remember anything else."

Dr. Frank had attended a political picnic at Stoughton during the afternoon and was on his way to a Green Bay hotel for dinner with Republican leaders when the accident occurred.

After serving 12 years as president of the University of Wisconsin, Frank was removed by the board of regents in January of 1937.

Throughout his election campaign Frank declared that he hoped to rid Wisconsin of "LaFolletteism". Phillip F. LaFol-

Senator Chavez
Forges Into Lead
in Primary Race

(By The Associated Press)

Albuquerque, N. M., Sept. 16.—United States Senator Dennis Chavez, trailing in Saturday's bitterly-waged Democratic primary senatorial race, forged into the lead over Rep. John J. Dempsey today on the basis of late returns from northern Spanish-American counties.

Amended unofficial returns from all but about 100 of the 914 voting precincts overcame the slender, precarious lead held by Dempsey since counting started Saturday night, and put the senator out in front by a handful of ballots from a total Democratic count of about 85,000 votes to this point.

The count: 787 voting districts, Dempsey 42,371, Dempsey 41,926.

Gov. John E. Miles made a runaway race against Mayor Clyde Tingley of Albuquerque, who bid for another term in the capitol after serving two terms from 1934 to 1938.

In the Republican senatorial contest, rancher Albert K. Mitchell virtually was assured the nomination over former Gov. Richard C. Dillon, Townsend-endorsed candidate, by three-to-one.

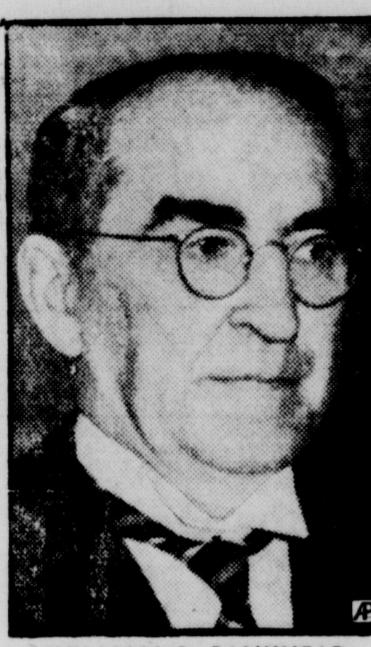

Similarly, Maurice Miera of Santa Fe was making an easy race of it over Seth Alston, Lovington banker, for the gubernatorial nomination.

Sublette Man Made
Foreman Grand Jury

Andrew Bulfen of Sublette was selected foreman of the September grand jury when the panel reported to Judge Harry Wheat of Freeport in the Lee county Circuit court today. Mrs. Marea Fitzpatrick of Marion township is clerk of the jury. State's Attorney Edward Jones indicated today that the grand jury in all probability, would adjourn late this afternoon until Monday of next week, when it will continue its deliberations. Two cases were to be presented today, and in another the witnesses had failed to appear, the state's attorney said.

Judge Wheat will call the docket Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when the trial list for the September term will be made up.

COMMUNISTS ARE AGAIN REFUSED BALLOT COLUMN

Leave Office of State Secretary in Visible Insigne Today

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 16.—(AP)—The Communist party failed a second time today to obtain a place on the Nov. 5 election ballot in Illinois.

Visibly incensed, three representatives of the party walked out of the statehouse office of Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes when representatives of Gov. Horner and Auditor Edward J. Barrett refused immediate endorsement of Communist petitions in behalf of Earl Browder, party presidential nominee, and other candidates.

The Communist representatives carried away the petitions, which they said bore 28,000 voters' signatures, and declared they wouldn't make any further attempt to file them.

Alexander Wilson, administrative assistant to Horner, and James Hardie, chief clerk in the office of Auditor Barrett, refused to endorse the petitions until they had conferred with Attorney General John E. Cassidy. Wilson questioned whether they complied with the election law.

Asked To Return

Lewis Vogel, head of the index department in Hughes' office, asked the Communist petition bearers to come back this afternoon, thus allowing time for consultation with Cassidy.

"We'll not come back this afternoon," retorted Max R. Naiman, Chicago attorney representing the party. "We presented these petitions and they were refused. We can't hang around all day."

"If that's your attitude, it's all right with me," Hardie responded.

With that, Naiman and David Bentall, another Chicago attorney, and Michael Kingsley, Chicago, who said he represented the Communist campaign committee, picked up the petitions and departed.

Bentall declared the Democratic state officials "don't want the Communist party on the ballot because they know that if it is Wendell Willkie will be elected president: the Communist party would expose the war-mongering of the Democratic administration".

Socialists May File

Frank Mucci, Peoria, was listed on the petitions as the Communist candidate for governor.

Previously Hughes had refused to grant the Communists ballot recognition unless they filed petitions bearing at least 25,000 voters' names. He ruled the Communists were not a political party in this state because they failed to poll five per cent of the vote in the last general election.

This was the final day on which minority parties could petition for places on the Illinois ballot. Socialist party leaders announced they would file petitions with 28,000 names late today.

LOMBARDI INJURED

Brooklyn, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Ernest Lombardi, Cincinnati's heavy-hitting first-string catcher, will be unable to play for about 10 days, Manager Bill McKechnie said today.

Lombardi suffered a sprained right ankle in the first game of yesterday's double-header with the Dodgers.

Willkie Loses Voice: Not Handshake

—NEA Telephoto

Undaunted by voice failure, Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, shakes hands with members of a crowd that gathered to see him at LaSalle Saturday morning. Voice specialists summoned to treat him aboard his special train said they believed he would be able to make his speech at Coffeyville, Kan., where he once taught history in high school, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Meanwhile former Governor Alf Landon of Kansas, GOP presidential nominee in 1936, was pinch hitting for Willkie in making rear platform speeches today as the special train traveled through Missouri and Kansas. Mexico Pledges Anew Her Hope of Solidarity

State Funeral Is Held for Speaker William Bankhead

Washington, Sept. 16—(AP)—Headed by President Roosevelt, official Washington paid its respects today to Speaker William B. Bankhead at a state funeral in the house chamber.

The 66-year-old speaker, an administration stalwart for the past seven years, died early yesterday after an internal hemorrhage. He was stricken a week ago in Baltimore a short time before he was to address a political rally.

The house's choice to succeed Bankhead was Sam Rayburn of Texas, the present Democratic leader and a close friend of the dead speaker.

The brief ceremony elevating Rayburn to speaker was to pre-cede the funeral services.

At the conclusion of the services, a special train will leave the capital bearing Bankhead's body to his home in Jasper, Ala. for burial. Roosevelt, a committee of 60 house members, and other representatives of officialdom will accompany the body south to attend the final services. A three-day house recess meanwhile will be taken.

Third to Die in Office

Roosevelt, who received word of Bankhead's death while cruising on the Potomac, said that "every American loses a tried and proven friend of our system of government".

Bankhead, who had served as speaker since 1936, was the third to die in that office during the Roosevelt administration. Henry T. Rainey of Illinois died in 1934, and Joseph W. Byrnes of Tennessee in 1936.

Bankhead had been a member of the house since 1917. He was keynote speaker at the Democratic national convention in Chicago in July and runner-up to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace there for the vice presidential nomination.

Bankhead was the first Alabamian to become speaker of the national house of representatives and his unanimous election to that high office made congressional history.

Under Dome Half Century

A member of a family which was represented for more than half a century under the capitol dome, politics was his birthright, but years of climbing the house seniority ladder intervened before "Will" Bankhead became, in quick succession, chairman of the powerful rules committee, majority leader and speaker.

Elected first to the 65th or "war congress", he realized a long-cherished ambition to wield the speaker's gavel upon the death of Speaker Joseph W. Byrnes of Tennessee near the close of the 1936 session. Byrnes' passing, virtually upon adjournment eve, created a situation for which there was no precedent. It was the first time a speaker had died while congress was in session. Party leaders, anxious to avert anything in the nature of a contest under these circumstances, quickly decided upon Bankhead, but years of climbing the house seniority ladder intervened before "Will" Bankhead became, in quick succession, chairman of the powerful rules committee, majority leader and speaker.

John, and began an active participation in Democratic politics. He served Madison county in the Alabama legislature, was city attorney of Huntsville for four years and circuit solicitor of the fourteenth judicial circuit from 1910 to 1914. Then he tried for congress but lost to W. B. Oliver. Two years later the district was divided and Bankhead won the new seat thus created. Oliver continued in office and years later presented Bankhead's name to the house Democratic caucus as a candidate for majority leader.

Once Known As 'Boy Orator'

Bankhead's oratorical reputation was established before he was sent to congress for in 1912 he was the "boy orator" chosen to present Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. This was at the Baltimore convention, scene of an historic struggle before Woodrow Wilson was nominated.

Serving his congressional apprenticeship in the grim days of the World war and achieving both power and distinction in the momentous New Deal session of Franklin D. Roosevelt's first administration, Bankhead proved an efficient legislator. Teamed with his senator-brother, he engineered passage of the celebrated Bankhead cotton control act, an integral part of the Roosevelt farm program. He also was author of soldiers' rehabilitation legislation which made it possible for thousands of crippled veterans to earn a living.

Bankhead was twice married. The first union, contracted in January, 1900, was to Ada Eugenia Siege of Memphis. She died a few years later leaving him with two baby daughters, Tallulah and Eugenia. In 1915 he married Florence McGuire of Jasper, Ala.

Two Accused of Swindling Rich Joliet Spinster

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 16—(AP)—Oren R. Six, 53, was held in jail here today while authorities searched for his companion in an alleged $100,000 swindle two years ago of Miss Joan Heggie, wealthy Joliet spinster.

Six was seized Saturday in a LaSalle, Ill. hotel, charged with embezzlement in a warrant signed by Miss Heggie's niece, Mrs. Agnes Davis.

According to Detective Clarence Kerns of the state's attorney's office, Miss Heggie told police that Six and a companion two years ago persuaded her to endorse to them bonds which then had a market value of about $100,000 but which now she said would be worth about $67,000 in the open market.

Miss Heggie related, Kerns said, that the bonds were to have been collateral in a business transaction, but Six and his companion sold them.

Miss Heggie is a member of the family which formerly operated the Heggie foundry in Joliet.

Landon Pinch Hits for Willkie While Latter Rests Voice

Kansas City, Sept. 16—(AP)—To save his voice for a major address at Coffeyville, Kas. Wendell L. Willkie turned over to Alf M. Landon today most of the speechmaking on his campaign tour through Missouri and eastern Kansas.

The Republican presidential nominee, who became so hoarse Saturday that he had to forego several talks from the platform of his special train, was improving under the treatment of a throat specialist.

Dr. H. D. Bernard of Beverly Hills, Calif. treated Willkie yesterday and then said that his strained throat was clearing up nicely.

Willkie's speech at Coffeyville, where he was a high school teacher 27 years ago, was set for 4 p.m. Central Standard time. The subject was "The Failure of the New Deal Theory of Government", and it was the candidate's second prepared address since his nomination. All his other speeches have been extemporaneous.

Refractions from Speaking

Before reaching Coffeyville, the schedule called for brief train stops at Pleasant Hill, Butler and Nevada, Mo., and Pittsburg, Kas. Tonight Willkie will pause at Claremore, Okla., home of the late Will Rogers, and then go to Tulsa for an address.

It was the rear-platform talks which Willkie asked Landon to make. The 1936 Republican nominee called on the present candidate last night, and Landon said afterward:

"We had a quiet chat. I confirmed to Mr. Willkie that despite all the new deal propaganda he hasn't lost any ground."

Willkie spent a quiet Sunday here after an auto tour of the business district, during which he waved to persons along the sidewalks. In the afternoon he visited meetings of Republican leaders from Missouri and Kansas. On his doctor's advice, he refrained from speaking.

Democrats Hold Meeting in Lee Co. Court House

Republican orators and "their controlled newspapers" were targets of U. S. Senator James M. Slattery, Democratic nominee for re-election, who addressed about 150 persons at the courthouse here Saturday night.

"As a member of the military affairs committee of the United States senate", Slattery asserted, "I tell you that despite all the viewing with alarm of the Republican orators and their controlled newspaper, in our shipyards, in our arsenals, and in our great industrial plants throughout the nation, the program of American defense is going speedily forward".

Slattery rapped Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential candidate and his party when he called the Elwood acceptance a Hollywood spectacle. He asserted that the Republicans and their leaders were confused on the issue of national conscription with several changes in policy declared by the presidential nominee.

The record of Governor Henry Horner of Illinois was cited by Slattery who declared, "It was my privilege to serve for three years under Governor Horner, greatest governor in the history of Illinois".

Sherwood Dixon, county Democratic chairman, introduced Senator Slattery and the other candidates who spoke. Louis E. Lewis, candidate for lieutenant governor, called the Republican platform "a left-handed endorsement of the new deal". The issues between the two parties are not clearly drawn, according to Candidate Lewis.

JONES SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Because the name of Wendell Willkie has never appeared on an election ballot, "not even for school supervisor", Lewis declared, persons voting for him would break a precedent as serious as the violation of the third term tradition. "In times of world stress", he said, "it would be folly to chose a man who never did any business of government in any way". Roosevelt's defeat, he believes, would be cheered by the dictator nations and only the serousness of the hour, Lewis said made the president accept.

Persons who boo and hiss pictures of the president in newsreels are, according to Walter Orlikowski, another speaker, the kind who encourage fifth column activities. Orlikowski is a candidate for congressman-at-large.

Others introduced by Mr. Dixon were Edward Jones of Dixon who asserted that he will be a candidate for re-election as state's attorney of Lee county; Rex Bradshaw, candidate for circuit clerk; Michael Mihm, candidate for coroner, and Henry White of Somonauk, candidate for state representative.

All voters welcome at Republican meeting, Lee Co. court house tonight.

Dorothy Schmidt Becomes Bride of Jack F. Little

Melodies of the composers, Bach, Franck, Gounod and Schubert sounded through St. Luke's Episcopal church Sunday afternoon, played by Miss Naomi Woll, organist, as an impressive prelude to a nuptial service in which Miss Dorothy May Schmidt, youngest daughter of Henry Schmidt of 522 North Dement avenue, pledged vows with Jack F. Little, son of Mrs. Helen Little of 608 Second avenue. The Rev. Father B. Norman Burke pronounced the ceremony at 4 o'clock in the presence of a large assemblage of guests.

White asters were the only decoration at the altar, lighted by white tapers in candelabra. Miss Woll's selections included a Bach chorale, Caesar Franck's "Andantino," the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," and "Prayer," by Schubert. The traditional "Bridal Chorus" from Wagner's "Lohengrin" was the signal for the entrance of the bridal party.

Mrs. Carl Buchner, Jr. (Ethel Schmidt) was her sister's matron of honor. Alfred Billig of Chicago, the bride's cousin, served Mr. Little as best man. Ushers were J. Duane Wood, and Raymond Schmidt, brother of the bride.

The bride approached the altar with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was wearing a modish suit of soldier blue wool, with brown beaver pockets trimming her short jacket. Her felt hat matched her suit, and at her shoulder was a single lavender orchid. She carried a white prayer book, and her mother's lace wedding handkerchief.

Washington, Sept. 16—(AP)—Headed by President Roosevelt, official Washington paid its respects today to Speaker William B. Bankhead at a state funeral in the house chamber.

The 66-year-old speaker, an administration stalwart for the past seven years, died early yesterday after an internal hemorrhage. He was stricken a week ago in Baltimore a short time before he was to address a political rally.

The house's choice to succeed Bankhead was Sam Rayburn of Texas, the present Democratic leader and a close friend of the dead speaker.

The brief ceremony elevating Rayburn to speaker was to precede the funeral services.

At the conclusion of the services, a special train will leave the capital bearing Bankhead's body to his home in Jasper, Ala. for burial. Roosevelt, a committee of 60 house members, and other representatives of officialdom will accompany the body south to attend the final services. A three-day house recess meanwhile will be taken.

Third to Die in Office

Roosevelt, who received word of Bankhead's death while cruising on the Potomac, said that "every American loses a tried and proven friend of our system of government".

Bankhead, who had served as speaker since 1936, was the third to die in that office during the Roosevelt administration. Henry T. Rainey of Illinois died in 1934, and Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee in 1936.

Bankhead had been a member of the house since 1917. He was keynote speaker at the Democratic national convention in Chicago in July and runner-up to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace there for the vice presidential nomination.

Bankhead was the first Alabamian to become speaker of the national house of representatives and his unanimous election to that high office made congressional history.

Under Dome Half Century

A member of a family which was represented for more than half a century under the capitol dome, politics was his birthright, but years of climbing the house seniority ladder intervened before "Will" Bankhead became, in quick succession, chairman of the powerful rules committee, majority leader and speaker.

Elected first to the 65th or "war congress", he realized a long-cherished ambition to wield the speaker's gavel upon the death of Speaker Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee near the close of the 1936 session. Byrns' passing, virtually upon adjournment eve, created a situation for which there was no precedent. It was the first time a speaker had died while congress was in session.

Party leaders, anxious to avert anything in the nature of a contest under these circumstances, quickly decided upon Bankhead for the post and less than 12 hours after the death of his predecessor, the courtly Alabamian was elected without opposition as the 45th speaker of the house. He was re-elected Jan. 6, 1937.

Born on a small plantation at Moscow, Ala., on April 12, 1874, Bankhead was the son of a Confederate army captain who blazed a trail to congress which later was followed by two of his sons. When "Will" was elected to congress from the newly-created seventh district of Alabama, his father, Senator John Hollis Bankhead, already had carved a distinguished career in the national legislature. About 10 years after the father's death, another son, John H. Bankhead, second son, won a senate seat.

Versed in Parliamentary Law

Adherence to his father's advice to "stay on the floor of the house and learn the rules," made "Will" Bankhead one of the ablest parliamentarians in congress. It was to this knowledge he attributed his rise to the speakership but he was aided materially by his ability as an orator and his wide popularity among the members.

A product of the hill country of his native state, he was educated in log school houses the University of Alabama and Georgetown University's law school. Soon after receiving his law degree, he almost forsook his profession for a theatrical career in New York. Family opposition induced him to give up the idea but he lived to see his ambitions in that direction attained by his daughter, Tallulah, star of stage and screen.

Just before the turn of the century, Bankhead entered a law partnership with his brother

Two Accused of Swindling Rich Joliet Spinster

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 16—(AP)—Oren R. Six, 53, was held in jail here today while authorities searched for his companion in an alleged $100,000 swindle two years ago of Miss Joan Heggie, wealthy Joliet spinster.

Six was seized Saturday in a LaSalle, Ill. hotel, charged with embezzlement in a warrant signed by Miss Heggie's niece, Mrs. Agnes Davis.

According to Detective Clarence Kerns of the state's attorney's office, Miss Heggie told police that Six and a companion two years ago persuaded her to endorse to them bonds which then had a market value of about $100,000 but which now she said would be worth about $67,000 in the open market.

Miss Heggie related, Kerns said, that the bonds were to have been collateral in a business transaction, but Six and his companion sold them.

Miss Heggie is a member of the family which formerly operated the Heggie foundry in Joliet.

Russell Escapes Chair; Verdict of Guilty Returned

Chicago, Sept. 16—(AP)—Jack Russell, former Oklahoma desperado, convicted for the second time of violating the federal kidnaping law, today awaited sentence.

A federal court jury Sunday returned a verdict of guilty against the death penalty.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward said he would pronounce sentence later.

Russell was convicted and sentenced to death last Nov. 22, but was granted a new trial by the U. S. Court of Appeals.

He also was author of soldiers' rehabilitation legislation which made it possible for thousands of crippled veterans to earn a living.

Bankhead was twice married. The first union, contracted in January, 1900, was to Ada Eugenia Siegel of Memphis. She died a few years later leaving him with two baby daughters, Tallulah and Eugenia. In 1915 he married Florence McGuire of Jasper, Ala.

CONSERVING ENERGY

Anderson, S. C.—(AP)—The most resourceful angler must be the fellow who stood on the edge of a trout hatchery, gazing into the water. Not until after the disappearance of many fish was his technique discovered.

The man made his catches with a line extended through a pocket with a hole in it, down his pants leg and into the water. He pulled the fish up his pants leg.

DUCKY IDEA

Pierre, S. D.—(AP)—Game Warden George Woods used a new technique to rescue ducks threatened by a drying pot hole. The mother couldn't move her brood through dense weeds separating her home from a nearby pond. So Woods had a farmer now a swath through the tangle. Mother and ducklings waddled right down the lane to the next pond.

Dorothy Schmidt Becomes Bride of Jack F. Little

Melodies of the composers, Bach, Franck, Gounod and Schubert sounded through St. Luke's Episcopal church Sunday afternoon, played by Miss Naomi Woll, organist, as an impressive prelude to a nuptial service in which Miss Dorothy May Schmidt, youngest daughter of Henry Schmidt of 522 North Dement avenue, pledged vows with Jack F. Little, son of Mrs. Helen Little of 608 Second avenue. The Rev. Father B. Norman Burke pronounced the ceremony at 4 o'clock in the presence of a large assemblage of guests.

White asters were the only decoration at the altar, lighted by white tapers in candelabra. Miss Woll's selections included a Bach chorale, Caesar Franck's "Andantino," the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," and "Prayer," by Schubert. The traditional "Bridal Chorus" from Wagner's "Lohengrin" was the signal for the entrance of the bridal party.

Mrs. Carl Buchner, Jr. (Ethel Schmidt) was her sister's matron of honor. Alfred Billig of Chicago, the bride's cousin, served Mr. Little as best man. Ushers were J. Duane Wood and Raymond Schmidt, brother of the bride.

The bride approached the altar with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was wearing a modish suit of soldier blue wool, with brown beaver pockets trimming her short jacket. Her felt hat matched her suit, and at her shoulder was a single lavender orchid. She carried a white prayer book, and her mother's lace wedding handkerchief.

Mrs. Buchner was attired in a black ensemble, accented by a shoulder corsage of white gladiolas.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's father, following the ceremony. Only members of the bridal party and the immediate families of Mr. and Mrs. Little were present.

Beverly Beier Gives Luncheon

A party table, colorfully dressed in red, white and blue, awaited a dozen three-to-nine-year-olds who were entertained at luncheon on Saturday at "Beiercliff," as guests of the George Beiers' young daughter, Beverly. A trim sailor stood guard in the center of the table, and at the covers were sailor-favors containing caps and fortunes.

Whistles and balloons, given as favors, were also in patriotic colors. With the dessert course, came ice cream molds in the form of autumn fruits, sent from Toledo, Ohio by Beverly's grandfather, Henry Page.

Neighborhood playmates of the hostess made up her guest list, including Sara Lynn McNichols, Joey Jones, Norma Jean Rorer, Judy Jones, Albert and Janet Newcomer, Bennie Roe, Don Memier, Sylvia and Peter Schuler, and George Tyler.

EDWIN MERRICKS ATTEND WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Merrick, Jr., were among out of town guests attending the wedding of Miss Muriel Burrell of East Chicago, Ind. and Fred Washer of Calumet City yesterday afternoon at St. Paul's Episcopal church in Hammond, Ind. Mr. Merrick's brother, Allen Merrick of Calumet City was one of the ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrick returned to Dixon this morning, after visiting in Calumet City since Friday with Mr. Merrick's parents and brother, the senior Edwin W. Merricks and son Allen.

HUSBANDS ARE SUPPER GUESTS

Members of a Thursday afternoon bridge group were entertaining their husbands at a scramble supper last evening at the Harold Coss home as a prelude to resuming their bi-weekly play. In the card games last evening, Mrs. Coss and Eugene Barrowman held high scores, and Mrs. Victor Eleher and Elwin Wadsworth were second high.

Witzleb-Bohn Bridal Is Read

Miss Dorothy Bohn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Bohn of Lee Center, became the bride of Fred Witzleb, son of Mrs. Charles Witzleb of Dixon, in a single ring ceremony solemnized at noon on Saturday at the parsonage of the Zion Lutheran church in Davenport, Iowa. The vows were read by the Rev. Louis G. Krebs, former pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church of Amboy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hargraves of Dixon attended the couple.

The bride wore royal blue crepe romaine with harmonizing accessories and a corsage of cream-colored tea roses. Her matron of honor chose black crepe with a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest J. Trautwein are vacationing with relatives of Mr. Trautwein in Winfield, Kan. They left for Winfield on Friday.

IT'S A PLEASURE TO HAVE A DIXON TELEPHONE

The service is more prompt than in most communities.

More people have telephones than in other cities of the same size.

More people have extension phones and therefore more promptly answer their calls.

Many people have the Telephone Secretarial Service so their telephone messages are always received even in their absence.

The telephone operators are always courteous.

And with it all, it costs less to have a phone in Dixon than in other communities having the same number of phones.

An extension phone costs only 50 cents a month.

Long distance telephone calls after 7 P. M. and all day Sunday are reduced in price as much as 40% over day-time rates.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

What Shall It Profit a Nation?

The French saved Paris. In saving it, they lost something else—and time alone shall tell which was the more valuable.

The British have chosen the other course. They may sacrifice in flame and ashes the greatest city in the world, but they may save something else, too, that is very precious: self-respect, honor, something that for lack of a better term might be called a national soul.

The words of St. Mark were not written perhaps for quite these circumstances, but they come forcibly to mind as the bombs shriek down, the walls crumble, and the dust and smoke roll across the city on the Thames.

"For whosoever will save his life shall lose it....

"For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

The words were written, perhaps, of another kind of sacrifice than that which the ordinary people of Britain are making today. Perhaps soul is not quite the right word. But should the British win through after an ordeal of this kind, they may have lost London, but they may also have saved something more valuable to their future—their integrity as a people.

All characters, organizations and incidents of this serial are entirely fictitious.

YESTERDAY: Sue Mary goes to Mr. Ross Clark's house to take dictation for the manuscript of her book. Miss Mary and another society debutante, Sue Mary, Mrs. Metal, know Nick would never approve. With the Nick's back to the orders, government contracts, Sue Mary finds war is coming close to her, personally.

SURPRISES FOR SUE MARY

CHAPTER VII
BEING with Joe now gave Sue Mary rather a feeling of entering another world. Only a short time ago his life had been hers. Now there was a wall between them.

Oh, not much of a wall, she told herself. Rather a curtain. She had noticed its presence when she had tried to explain to him what she did down at the Youth Progress office; of how she was working for the party candidate. Or when she tried to make her evenings with Nick sound as amusing as they did when she talked them over at the headquarters with Vera and Natalie.

"I can't understand you going with such a screwy crowd," Joe would repeat helplessly. "You, of all people."

He would stare bewilderedly at her; almost as though she was a stranger. And that always irritated Sue Mary. She had a feeling that he was astonished at finding her capable of possessing thoughts; of being a personality, of wanting to know about the world in which she lived. To put those things into words, though, always left her floundering.

"Can't you see, Joe, that I won't sit home twiddling my thumbs. I have a right to some fun. And, anyway, this isn't play. It's real work. I'm taking an interest in the life of the city, the state, the nation. I'm through being blind and stupid, and—oh, feminine. There's work to be done and we young people are the ones to do it."

"A types speech," Joe muttered. His square jaw hardened and little muscles played around the corners of his mouth. Hot anger blazed in his blue eyes, but he managed to keep back the words that would drag them into a quarrel. "You'll see—soon enough. You'll see—"

"See what?"

"See that there's always ways of helping folks and being good citizens that were never practiced by that gang of—of—"

"Of what?"

"Reds!" He spit the word out.

SUE MARY was furious. "You would say that. Of course they have been called Reds. It's a joke at headquarters. They've been called Reds before, but they're all good Americans. Just because they aren't blind; just because they want the right man in office and want a good system of government so the laborers can have their rights!"

Joe stood up in the dim parlor where they had sat for a few moments after he brought her home from the movies. His height seemed to fill the room, and even in the near-darkness she could feel and see his anger.

"There's nothing I can say. I won't quarrel with you, Sue Mary. I love you and nothing's going to change that."

"But—the workers are still not getting enough," Sue Mary argued weakly. Vera was always lecturing about the underprivileged; the laboring class ground down; the idealistic conditions that existed in other countries which had shaken off the yoke of capitalism.

One of the wives laughed tolerantly. "She sounds like them women that came out of the pocket line a couple of years ago," she said. "You ask your Joe about them. He'll tell you we're doing all right."

"Sure, maybe things could be better. But so could everything. We'll get along. Our men ain't dumb. They're working with the management and things are coming along better."

GOING back home that evening with the late afternoon sun casting long shadows ahead, with Joe solid and happy beside her in the dusty old coupe, Sue Mary found a pleasant glow of comfort creeping through her. Somehow it didn't seem quite so necessary to save these people from themselves. To be sure, conditions could be improved, but they seemed rather capable of handling their affairs themselves.

"Joe—maybe you do know me pretty well. I'm glad I went," she said. Joe turned and looked down at her.

"I thought you were asleep," he said. "Anyways, I'm glad you went, too. Help to balance you." "Maybe I did need to be balanced a little."

"Too much Youth Progress," he said gently. "It couldn't hurt you, though. You're too bright to swallow that hokum."

She wished suddenly that she could continue feeling so sure of herself and the world. She wished she hadn't promised Nick she would go to the rally. But he would call and she would go.

(To Be Continued)

They weren't jealous of Joe. They were proud of having a guy with letters after his name work with them. He knew those big machines like a doc knew a patient. They kidded him, but they were proud of him.

And their wives were proud of these workers. The women were a bit dull; a bit too settled, engrossed in the sale at Miller's Super-Market; the new movie tonic translation of a figure at last by conquest "under Shakespeare's?"

The old monuments of London fall, the outercoping of Roman walls crumble at last after 2,000 years, the Tower of William the Conqueror may toppling, the Londons of Johnson and Dickens and Thackeray, of Limehouse and Soho and Whitehall may become dust.

The British are staking everything on the future rather than on the past. They have chosen to make bomb-fodder of the monuments of the past, hoping and believing that those very ruins will be recognized by the future as a monument to their courage and their integrity.

Even if the British lose London, they stake all on the hope of finding something infinitely more precious.

Be Not Afraid of Greatness . . .

The United States is about to have greatness thrust upon it.

The course of world events places us in the position of a bobbed rider knifing down a steep hill—we may be able to direct our national sled to right or left; we may be able to drag the brakes a little; but stop and rest, pause to survey the scenery, we cannot.

We must ride out the course, with only a little time given us to polish the runners, test the steering gear, and strengthen the sled's braces. Whether we will or no, the United States is pitchforked into a position of world leadership, of world power.

We must read again Maria's letter to Malvolio in "Twelfth Night," which might have been written to the United States "not to be opened until 1940":

"... be not afraid of greatness: some are born great, some achieve greatness and some have greatness thrust upon 'em. The Fates open their hands; let thy blood and spirit embrace them . . ."

The United States has been reluctant to embrace its fate. It has always held back. When continental United States was an accomplished thing, we sat back, expanded, basked. We wanted nothing more. We receded from the unnatural imperialism into which we were catapulted by the Spanish-American War. We were not adept at colonizing. We had no wish to rule others.

These were sound instincts. We still have them. The greatness to which we are called today is not a call to dominate other nations or other peoples. It is a different kind of greatness, a new kind of leadership.

Soon the United States will be charged not only with maintaining its own freedom, but with keeping freedom alive in a world in which it is temporarily overshadowed.

The United States must be a tower of strength around which may rally all people of good will throughout the world. It must develop within its own borders a social regime providing more happiness and well-being than exists in any totalitarian country. It must give moral leadership to the free countries of the west, and help them to defend each other from enemies within and without.

To do these things requires citizenship, vision, wisdom, unselfishness, and the broadest patriotism. To every man is given the task of supporting with all the strength within him the greatness which the times are thrusting upon America.

Services will be held at the home southeast of Dixon Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Robert S. Wilson of Bethel Evangelical church and the Rev. J. H. Hughes of the First Baptist church of Dixon. Interment will be in Chapel Hill Memorial park.

Sunset and evening star.

And one clear call for me!

And may there be no moaning at the bar.

When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep.

Too full for sound and foam

When that which drew from out the boundless deep

Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell.

And after that the dark

May and there be no sadness of farewell

When I embark.

For though from out our bourne of Time and Place,

The flood may bear me far.

I hope I see my Pilot face to face

When I have crossed the bar.

FRED J. MANNING, JR.

Fred Jester Manning, Jr. passed away Sunday at the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., where he had gone for treatment for bacterial endocarditis. He was born Oct. 28, 1901 at Tampico, Ill. Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Manning; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Manning of this city; six sisters, Mrs. Paul Young of Nelson, Mrs. Chester Waldman, Mrs. Alvin Roden, Mrs. Wiley Stone of Chicago, Mrs. Clifford Brodena of Burlingame, Cal., and Miss Gertrude of Los Angeles, Cal.; and one brother, Harold, of the door.

Many nations have now gone mad for the same reasons that drive individuals crazy: frustration, defeat, avarice, vengeance, delusions of grandeur, and so on.

Fascism and Communism are not "revolutions." They are escapes—the same "escapes" which rob individuals of their reason by not taking into consideration all the activities of human living. Fascism is an attempt to compel economic order from a minority down. Communism, to compel it from the masses up. But man does not live by economics alone.

The duped radicals among our youth and the pension-salivating monsieurs among our old people naively imagine that man can be legislated into being someone else. So do many other reckless nitwits. But every attempt to outlaw a fraud of the human species, or to administer a synthetic virtue into it, has run through imperialist phases of enthusiasm, dictatorial "enforcement" and debacle. We remain neither black nor white, left nor right, but an evolving breed that is at once both altruistic and competitive.

In these terrible weeks we dimly see why most of mankind is so dissatisfied. His new forward step—the machine—has given him so much so quickly and with such a sense of biological distribution that it has made him variously smug, spellbound, submerged, and desperate. Some men have decided machinery is a god and invented Communism for its ultimate worship. The Nazis have iconized science into devil-worship and set out to destroy it. They have no better plan for individuals than total subjection to their tools. In America people have continued to keep man's character in command of his material. The most ineffectual experiment of the New Deal, the most passionate protest of the reactionary, are both, in essence, expressions of that one, single human way of life. To ask ourselves now for a statement of "the American case" is to show some absorption of the poisons being fed to us. There has never been any other case for man than democracy.

In that clear certainty we will maintain ourselves. Since it is wiser to seize lunatics than to build barricades against them, we will establish upon the land that is ours, not merely a fortress, but a great base from which to strike every mania at its source. Human reason has not yet prevailed, therefore our arms must. We will give to their effort our brains, our blood, our treasure, because to do so is to conduct with dignity the painful process of our evolution and to achieve one further step in realizing man's unshakable self-confidence.

HERCULES powder explosion ruined one of the only three powder-producing plants working in the United States. The rate of production in this most essential defense material has not been satisfactory to the war department. Stocks on hand now would only permit the guns of this nation to fire four and one half hours a month at the rate at which powder has been used by leading European nations since the start of the war.

"I thought you were asleep," he said. "Anyways, I'm glad you went, too. Help to balance you."

"Maybe I did need to be balanced a little."

"Too much Youth Progress," he said gently. "It couldn't hurt you, though. You're too bright to swallow that hokum."

WENDELL WILLKIE Says

The New Deal's attack on business has had inevitable results. The investor has been afraid to invest his capital, and therefore billions of dollars now lie idle in the banks.

The business man has been afraid to expand his operations, and therefore millions of men have been turned away from the employment offices.

For the first time in our history, American industry has remained stationary for a decade. It offers no more jobs today than it did ten years ago—and there are 6,000,000 more persons seeking jobs."

Washington, Sept. 15 — While some of his friends and all of his enemies thought Willkie's opposition to the first industrial confiscation proposal was a political mistake, it is now just as universally apparent he made the most fundamental error of the campaign so far. Here is what happened after his lone-voiced protest:

When he spoke out, the senate was adopting the Overton-Russell provision allowing the government to take ownership of any plant or "facility" if the owner did not accept a government contract.

The word "facility" was so broad it seemed to cover everything including the implements of free speech—press and radio. The unfortunate language furthermore would have given the government permanent ownership of seized plants.

Business might not have been hurt as much as has been popularly supposed. In fact business was not interested. None of the legislative representatives of business here backed Willkie up. An owner of seized property would get full value under the law.

The real defects lay in other directions. First there was a prospect the government would have to assume permanent ownership of plants it did not know how to operate and didn't really want. A whole new vista of possibly state socialism was opened up merely to get at the problem of handling unprofitable recalcitrants.

The language was so loose and faulty further, as to lay open a way for a political-minded authority to punish his enemies and reward his friends. Possibility of the government taking over losing plants of friends was not ruled out.

AT CAMP RANDALL

Don Miller of Dixon is being heralded as one of the most proficient of the Badgers who are working on kicking the points after touchdowns at the University of Wisconsin. Saturday Miller scored one of five touchdowns in the first scrimage practice of the year and Coach Harry Stuhldreher described his team as "a band that want to play some tough football."

ONE UP ON SERIES

As the Knacks won a 4 to 0 decision over the Cardinals at Reynolds Field yesterday afternoon Dixon won a series with Mt. Morris. On Thursday the Dixon Plum Hollow golfers dropped a 19 to 11½ decision to the Mounties; Friday night Coach C. B. Lindell's football team won a 14 to 0 decision over representatives of the same community and yesterday the Dixon ball club broke the inter-city tie.

DAY OF JUDGMENT

The heavens might fall and Willard Jones, Fred Hofmann and Em Rorer might suffer a stroke if we suddenly admitted that the White Sox are really all right—but after yesterday's doubleheader we're crawling in our hole and pulling it in after us. (Gosh, this hurts.)

SATISFIED

Mother and father and Uncle Louis turned out to watch young Bevilacqua hurl his 4-hit victory over Mt. Morris here yesterday afternoon—probably to see what the young pitcher learned while he was with the DeLand club of the Florida State League. As they filed out of the gate they were beaming, so it seems they agree he's all right.

THREE PREPARE FOR THURSDAY

Three members of a low-standing quintet in the Commercial League did some practice bowling at the Dixon Recreation alleys Saturday afternoon. Of the trio, two upped their averages and Cahill's Electrics may be among those most interested in the news.

ARCHERY CLUB TO MEET

The Dixon archers, to be known this year as the Dixon Bowmen's club, will hold the first of their season meetings in the Boy Scout rooms above The Telegraph offices Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. New members will be welcome. According to President Ken Abbott, plans for the fall and winter will be outlined and a shoot planned for next Sunday. Until cold weather prevents it, outdoor shoots will be held at the Joe Crawford place east of town.

ATTEND WHITE SOX GAMES

Eddie Doyle, Peter Phalen and Sgt. and Mrs. A. A. Piergalski were among those from here who attended the White Sox doubleheader in Chicago yesterday afternoon. The Dixon aggregation also included members of the Reynolds Wire softball champions and their manager who were guests of their sponsor.

Bounding Indians Ascend Again to Lead in American League Struggle

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer As quick as you can say Robert William Andrew Feller the Cleveland Indians have ascended to the American League's throne room.

After trailing along in second place since last Tuesday the Indians took advantage of lapses on the part of their rivals yesterday and vaulted back on top, a full game in front of the Detroit Tigers.

Feller led the way to a double decision over the Philadelphia Athletics with one of his best performances. He gave up only two hits, struck out seven and for the second time in his major league career allowed no walks, in scoring a 5-0 shutout. He retired the first 22 batters in order and looked like he might get another no-hitter until Dick Siebert singled in the eighth.

It was Feller's 25th win against nine losses. The Indians had some trouble in the nightcap when the A's got rough with Al Smith, but George Caster, after pitching no-hit ball for four frames, blew wide open and the Tribe triumphed 8-5 with four runs in the fifth and three more off Chubby Dean in the seventh.

Catcher Ernie Lombardi of the Reds sprained an ankle in the first game.

The Pittsburgh Pirates knocked the New York Giants into sixth place when a double victory 10-3 and 4-3, ending their own losing streak at five games and extending the Giants' skid to seven.

The St. Louis Cardinals held third place, however, defeating the Phillips 7-0 and 3-1. Fiddler Bill McGee allowed but three hits and Enos Slaughter hit a grand slam home run in the first fracs.

The Boston Bees and Chicago Cubs divided a doubleheader. Manny Salvo winning the first 7-3 with seven-hit pitching and Dizzy Dean coming back with a careful nine-hit job to take the second game 7-4.

The Yankees were the victims of this year's greatest giant killers, the St. Louis Browns, 10-5 and 2-1. Outhit in both games, the Browns played tight ball and made their hits count. In the second game a two-run homer by Joe Grace was all Alden Auker needed.

This ran New York's slump to five defeats in six games and put the champs in jeopardy of being passed by the speeding Chicago White Sox, who ran their winning streak to eight games and just about eliminated the Boston Red Sox with twin triumphs, 5-1 and 4-2.

"Ted Lyons Day"

Sunday was "Ted Lyons' day" for 39,000 Chicago fans and the veteran righthander clamped down on the Red Sockers with three-hit pitching. John Rigney allowed only five in the nightcap, which Joe Kuhel won for him with a two-run homer in the tenth.

In the National League the Cincinnati Reds stretched their first place margin to nine games by conquering the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-3. The second game of a doubleheader ended in a 1-1 tie when darkness halted play after 11 innings and will be tried over today.

Born in Queen City, Mo., the son of a village school teacher, Dr. Frank became an evangelist at 16 when people told him he was a "born orator".

He was assistant to the president of Northwestern university from 1912 to 1916, and then editor of Century Magazine from 1921 to 1925 when he took the presidency of Wisconsin.

He was married June 2, 1917, to Mary Smith of St. Louis, who survives him. Glenn Frank, Jr., was their only child.

Young Frank, a reporter for the Wisconsin State Journal at Madison, was engaged to be married December 7 to Mary Jane Maniere, a junior at Milwaukee-Downer College.

There are only two ways in which the grip of the British navy can be broken—(1) by direct action and (2) by the crushing of England in the battle of Britain.

Thus it seems to me that in the long run we get back to the idea that pretty much everything hangs on the German drive against England itself. If Hitler wins, Mussolini wins. If the Nazi leader loses, Mussolini will lose in a big way, for he hasn't at present the sea power to drive the English fleets to cover.

State District
Forester Likes
Lowell Park Area

Complimenting the city of Dixon on its farsightedness in preserving such an area as Lowell Park, Joel C. Loomis of Rock Island, district forester of the state department of conservation, has written Edward Vaile, president of the Dixon park commission, as follows:

"After visiting your Lowell Park and seeing the splendid work that has been done for recreational development while yet maintaining the natural beauty and order of our native forests, I wish to compliment the city of Dixon on its farsightedness in preserving such an area as Lowell Park. I dare say that there are few if any cities in Illinois that have a finer park or, from a forester's viewpoint, a finer community forest, than you have in Lowell Park."

"The fact that you have left untouched the reproduction found under the hardwood trees gives you what is termed an all aged forest stand. Maintaining a forest as an all aged stand means that as the older trees become mature, they may be removed allowing the younger trees to take their place in the forest canopy. As a result of this practice, it is possible to obtain a perpetual supply of forest products from a forest area. This results in what foresters call a sustained yield which is the ultimate goal in forestry management throughout the United States. While you have probably never considered the actual cash value of the forest products in your park, I believe that in the future, as the older trees become mature, you may realize an actual cash income from the forest products in your park."

"Other benefits derived from your park, such as water-shed protection and wild-life protection, are also a part of the value we attach to community forests."

"The experimental value of your plantations in the Pinetum is unlimited in determining the adaptability of the various conifers to our climate and site conditions. At a future date, I hope to make a careful study of the growth made by the various conifers in your Pinetum. In hopes that the information will be of benefit to you as well as to our division in recommending future conifer plantings."

Defense Program Will Not Reduce WPA Rolls Much

By BRUCE CATTON
 Telegraph Washington Correspondent

Washington—Despite the re-employment expected to come because of the defense program, there seems to be little chance WPA rolls will go down much at any time in the very near future.

There are now about 1,690,000 people on WPA, with a mid-winter peak of something like 2,300,000 anticipated. Employment in private industry is increasing, and close to 100,000 people leave WPA for outside jobs every month; but the catch is that WPA's "back log"—its list of registered relief clients awaiting WPA jobs hasn't been shrinking a bit.

On the contrary, it has actually been rising. It stands now at about 1,000,000—second highest total in WPA history, exceeded only by the waiting list built up after the 1937 crash. What that means is simply that every time one man quits WPA there are 10 more waiting to take his place.

Defense Hasn't Helped South

Various explanations are offered. Chief immediate reason for the rise in the waiting list is a recent increase in reliefers in the south, which so far has received few benefits from defense spending, which has virtually lost its cotton markets overseas, and which has lately been hit by a number of floods and tornadoes.

Beyond that is the fact that defense-industry re-employment is both spotty and slow. It is noticeable in industrialized areas, almost invisible in other places. Such important defense industries as shipbuilding, aircraft, machine tools, aluminum manufacturing, explosives and the manufacture of engines currently employ fewer than 350,000 men all told; they could double their labor requirements without making a real dent in the total of jobs.

Lastly, Congress last spring forced WPA to make a drastic cut in its rolls, the labor market wasn't able to absorb all of those cut off, and many of them are back waiting for reassignment to WPA jobs.

Barring a basic change in the work-relief policy, there is little chance of a real cut in WPA until re-employment is extensive enough to dip into that million-man waiting list of certified relief clients.

Super-Ships for Navy?

Uncle Sam's projected two-ocean navy will boast the most formidable battleships ever designed if current stores about the navy's plans are correct.

According to these reports (which have every evidence of being reliable) the navy is considering building battleships of enormous size—58,000 tons with over 200 stores, or approximately 65,000 tons fully equipped and ready to go. Protective armor heavier than anything yet seen is said to be contemplated, including deck armor that would make the ships invulnerable to air attacks; batteries might include tremendous rifles of 18-inch or even 20-inch caliber, able to outsmash and outrange anything else in existence.

By upping the tonnage so greatly—largest warships now under construction are of 45,000 tons—much higher speeds could also be obtained. One estimate is that the projected ships could travel at 35 knots, which is almost up to the speeds of modern destroyers.

Packers Are Off to Flying Start in Grid Defense

Chicago, Sept. 16—(AP)—The irrepressible Green Bay Packers are off to a flying start toward their sixth national professional football championship, opening their bid with the customary spectacular and lethal air attack.

The defending champions, beginning their home season yesterday before only 11,657 spectators, rolled up 21 points in the first period and went on to win out, 27 to 20, over Davey O'Brien and the Philadelphia Eagles. The Washington Redskins got away to an equally successful start in the eastern division by whipping Jock Sutherland's Brooklyn eleven, 24 to 17.

The Detroit Lions and Chicago Cardinals battled to scoreless draw in a rain storm at Buffalo and the New York Giants, 1939 champs of the eastern division, rallied to the Pittsburgh, 10-10. The four games attracted a total of 81,021 customers.

Hutson Gets First Goal

At Green Bay, Don Hutson set up the first touchdown with a pass interception on the Eagles' 45. A play later Cecil Isbell dashed 39 yards around right end for the score and Hutson converted.

Shortly afterward Isbell climaxed a 71-yard march with a touchdown pass to Carl Mullenau and Hutson again kicked. The Packers scored again on Arnie Herber's short pass to Mullenau.

O'Brien led a rally and connected for three touchdown passes, but Green Bay reinforced its lead with two field goals by Clark Hinkle in the third period.

Secret Service's "Education" Campaign Against Counterfeiting Brings Results

This is one of the diagrams the Secret Service is distributing in its drive against counterfeiters.

(By NEA Service)

reached this county, but American $100 bills were found when the plant was confiscated.

Search of planes and ships is just one way Secret Service agents are attempting to stamp out counterfeiting.

Most important phase of the drive is the effort to educate the public to spot phony bills and coins. Millions of "Know Your Money" circulars have been distributed, particularly to small storekeepers.

And the campaign is bringing results.

During the first six months of 1939 unsuspecting victims of counterfeiters and forgers lost $122,234. In the same period this year, an educated public lost only $44,426.

Only three types of currency are printed by the U. S. government for circulation. The type is shown at the very top center of the bill, just above the words, "The United States of America." The three types are:

1. Federal reserve notes, which bear green serial numbers and seal.
2. United States notes, which bear red numbers and seal.
3. Silver certificates, which bear blue numbers and seal.

Most satisfactory way to make sure whether a bill given you is counterfeit is to compare it with a genuine bill of the same type and denomination.

The portraits on genuine bills stand out from the fine-line background, and the eyes are sharp. On fake bills the portrait is dull, smudged or unnaturally white. The background is dark or irregular.

Seals on genuine bills have sharp, identical sawtooth points. On counterfeits, the points are different, uneven, broken off. Serial numbers on bogus currency are poorly printed, badly spaced and uneven.

Genuine bills are printed on distinctive paper containing very small red and blue silk threads which counterfeiters are unable to duplicate.

When a stranger gives you a counterfeit bill, the Secret Service warns, don't return it. Instead, telephone the police at once and delay the passer under a pretext. If that's impossible, write down his description and take the tag numbers of any cars involved.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Substance" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 15.

The Golden Text was, "If we hope that for we see not, then do we with patience wait for it" (Romans 8: 25).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For the love of money is the root of all evil; while some covet after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows. But thou, O man of God, flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness" (1 Timothy 6:10, 11).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Take away wealth, fame, and social organizations, which weigh not one jot in the balance of God, and we get clearer views of Principle. Break up cliques, level wealth with honesty, let worth be judged according to wisdom, and we get better views of humanity. To ascertain our progress, we must learn where our affections are placed and whom we acknowledge and obey as God. If divine Love is becoming nearer, dearer, and more real to us, matter is then submitting to Spirit. The objects we pursue and the spirit we manifest reveal our standpoint, and show what we are winning" (p. 239).

Senator Explains Transaction

"Senator Slattery in explanation said he made a settlement on his children after the death of their mother and that he gave one of them, Mrs. Johnson, $25,000 in currency, the amount he "happened" to have in the strong box at that time. It was she, he said, who took the currency to a broker and invested it.

"When the stock was sold later Mrs. Johnson took the brokerage house check to a bank where she insisted upon currency in return for it. When she was questioned at State's Attorney Court-

Four in Slattery Family Found on State Pay Rolls

"Four members of United States Senator James M. Slattery's immediate family—two sons, a daughter and a son-in-law—were disclosed Friday as state payrollers," says Park E. Brown, political writer for the Chicago Tribune. Brown continues:

"The revelation was almost accidental. Idly thumbing over an alphabetical list of state employees in Cook county which had fallen into the hands of a group of Chicago Republicans, one of them upon a startling repetition of the name of Slattery. Inquiry disclosed the relationships.

Fourth Name Recalled

"Then it was recalled that when the facts about the Slattery family state deposit box, with its contents of thousands of dollars in currency came to light last year the public learned that a son-in-law by the name of Johnson was a state employee. That added the fourth name of the Slattery list.

"The alphabetical tabulation showed the amounts paid to the four in salaries during 1939. They totaled $6,828.29.

"Senator Slattery, as chairman of the state commerce commission on April 23, 1939. His 1939 state salary to that date was $1,766.66, the tabulation showed. Adding this to what the other members of the family received, the family's total income from the state last year was $8,594.95.

The Slattery in Review

"Ahead of the senator's name appeared the names of Al Slattery, later identified as Albert B. Slattery, a son of the senator, who was paid $175 as an inspector for the boxing commission, and of Edith Slattery, whose address was given as the senator's residence, 1522 Farwell avenue. Miss Slattery was shown to have received $1,313.29 as a junior case worker for the state department of public welfare.

"Immediately after Senator Slattery's own name was the name of another son, Philip J. Slattery, whose address also was given as the family residence in Rogers Park.

"Mrs. G. S. Wooding and son Gerald and Mrs. L. R. Crawford were week end visitors at the Chester Chandler home in Chicago.

Miss Mayme Proctor left Saturday to spend two weeks with relatives in Kansas City, Mo.

Son-in-Law on Rolls

"The fourth relative of the senator's found on the rolls was Norbert J. Johnson, 2045 Birchwood avenue, who married the senator's daughter, Ethel. The record showed that he received $2,400 as a junior auditor in the state department of finance. The strong box publicity last year had brought out that he received that salary from the sales tax division.

"Mrs. Ethel Slattery Johnson received prominence in the Slattery strong box investigation second only to that given her father, Senator Slattery. An investment of $23,000 or $25,000 in Commonwealth-Edison stock with currency taken from that box was made in her name. At that time her father was chairman of the commerce commission, which has power to fix the rates of the utility company and otherwise regulate its affairs.

Senator Explains Transaction

"Senator Slattery in explanation said
